

PRESS RELEASE

30 July 2010

David Blackmore - open studio during Hackney Wicked festival

<http://davidblackmore.co.uk>

<http://www.rhiz.eu/person-33372-en.html> [David Blackmore's blog]

<http://www.hackneywicked.com/>

David Blackmore is turning his studio into a small gallery during the Hackney wicked festival 30 July – 1 August.

Blackmore will be presenting a selection of drawings from a series entitled 'Borrowed from my bank'. These drawings were made using free pens from financial institutions. This is the first time David has exhibited these works however a selection of them have been published in the Dutch newspaper 'nrc.next'.

David Blackmore is a London-based Irish artist, and a lecturer at the University for the creative arts [UCA]. Originally trained in photography, over the past few years his practice has broadened to incorporate additional mediums.

In 2009 David had his third solo show at the Central European House of photography in Bratislava. Over the course of 2009 and 2010 Blackmore has been involved in a number of group shows in India, Slovakia and the UK. Detox an older body of work was also published in the journal 'Super massive black hole'.

Further info:

<http://davidblackmore.co.uk>

<http://www.rhiz.eu/person-33372-en.html> [David Blackmore's blog]

<http://www.hackneywicked.com/>

David's studio will be open at these times

Friday 30 July [17:00 – 21:00]

Saturday 31 July [12:00 – 20:00]

Sunday 1 August [12:00 – 20:00]

Admission is free

For further information about David Blackmore's work or to request high res images please contact:

David via db@davidblackmore.co.uk